THREE MARION MURDER CASES IN COURT TODAY

Arguments Given at Lima on Braden Watkins and Spagiani Appeals

ALL FACE LIFE TERMS

Reversals Sought Credibility of Cyre Bennett's Testimony Attacked

BY W J BUCHANAN
Marion Star Staff Writer

LIMA O Sept 14 Appeals of three Marion men convicted of murder in Marion county common pleas court and facing life terms in Ohio penitentiary were heard today before the third district court of appeals here

Arguments in two of the cases those of Othal Watkins and Dominick Spagiani were completed at noon and the case of Oliver Braden was to be heard this afternoon

The cases were appealed on error seeking reversals of the verdicts and [illegible] new trials

Braden and Watkins were found guilty in common pleas court last March of the robbery slaying of James F Bennett in December 1931 Their conviction came four years after Cyre Bennett brother of the slain man had been committed to the Lima hospital for the criminally insane after allegedly giving police a confession of the crime

Spagiani was convicted last [illegible] of shooting Jess Yoder in a quarrel over a 10-cent bet in a poker game at the Spagiani residence on Kenton avenue

The chief argument presented this morning on behalf of Othal Watkins was in the form of an attack on the credibility of the testimony of Cyre Bennett brother of the victim while Spagiani's attorney based his appeal on claims that Spagiani shot Yoder in self defense and that evidence produced in the trial here was insufficient to support a verdict of second degree murder

Opening Argument

Attorney Homer I Johnson counsel for Watkins presented the opening argument for the convicted man Johnson described the scene of the shooting in which James F Bennett was slain on Herman street a short distance from his own residence where his body was reported found sometime later by the brother Cyre Bennett

Johnson told of the confession obtained by police from Cyre Bennett and of the arrest of Watkins and Braden four years later

A deal made between Marion police and Herman Hinton who had been arrested for non support led to the arrests of Watkins and Braden Johnson asserted Hinton gave a tip to Police Capt Ora DeWees about the two men with the understanding Johnson declared that it would benefit him in connection with the non support charge against him

A confession made by Watkins could not be tied up with the Bennett slaying in several important particulars Johnson said and further pointed out that testimony of Cyre Bennett should not have been permitted in the record of Watkins trial inasmuch as Bennett had previously been committed to the Lima hospital

His testimony was prejudicial in that his age and condition were such as to influence the jury Johnson charged

Questioned by Judge

Judge Phil M Crow of Kenton a member of the appellate court questioned Johnson at this point as to whether the brother's testimony had anything to do with the guilt or innocence of Watkins to which Johnson replied that it had

FORM ORGANIZATION TO SEEK $65,000 FOR NEW INDUSTRY HERE

Value to All Citizens Emphasized in Opening Meeting Today; First Pledges Made.

By Bob Ryan
Marion Star Staff Writer

ARRANGEMENTS to conduct a campaign to raise $65 000 needed to locate the plant of the Defiance Pressed Steel Co in Marion were made at a meeting of 50 business and industrial men at a Chamber of Commerce luncheon at Hotel Harding at noon today

Arthur F Berry and Elmer I Schoenlaub were appointed joint chairmen of the campaign organization They were to select committee members this afternoon

As preliminary plans for the campaign were drawn it appeared that every resident of Marion will be given an opportunity to help raise the fund which is necessary to furnish a factory building and site suitable for the Defiance concern

Among suggestions the committee will consider are tag days in which the general public will be invited to contribute adoption of a "yardstick" basis of contributions for the different classes of business concerns and real estate owners and adoption of a similar basis for those in the city who have jobs

Of Benefit to Everybody

It was emphasized in talks at the luncheon that virtually every individual in Marion will benefit from the transfer of the plant to Marion and that consequently everyone should help move it to Marion

The Defiance concern seeking a new location because of a recent fire that destroyed its plant and the inadequacy of fire protection in that city to safeguard any future structure, would have a normal employment of around 400 persons and its annual payroll is expected to average around $600 000 when it gets into full swing

As the campaign setup was worked out this noon, several individual concerns made substantial pledges toward the fund Others gave assurance they would donate their share after the campaign committee had worked out some equitable basis for contributions for the different groups of business concerns and realty owners

The Chamber of Commerce has until Oct 1 to raise the $65 000 needed to locate the factory in Marion but those at the luncheon meeting insisted that every effort be made to raise the money by the end of this week

As the Chamber of Commerce prepared during the week end to launch the drive today a group of officers and department heads of the Defiance Industry came to Marion Sunday and took measurements at the Power Mfg Co building which the new concern will occupy Arrangements will be made to start installation of machinery just as soon as Marion has complied with its part of the contract to move the concern here company officials indicated

The contract signed by the Chamber and officials of the Defiance Pressed Steel Co fixing terms for location of the plant in Marion was read by W D Brown Chamber secretary at the outset of the luncheon which was in charge of H I Lewis Chamber president

Arrangements were made for the group to meet again Tuesday noon at the Harding to complete arrangements for the campaign The meeting will be in conjunction with the weekly Rotary club luncheon

Various Points Discussed

Those who spoke briefly at today's meeting and the substance of their talks follow

J C Woods chairman of the Chamber industrial committee— Marion has an opportunity to get a plant that occupied a five and one half acre tract until fire destroyed it The company has no debts is well financed and its officers are aggressive and conservative

Fred F Guthery—We've made two or three trips to Defiance to look over this concern The men are well financed and they know their business This concern would be a tremendous adjunct to Marion's industries Marion can't afford to lose this factory I'm satisfied it will be employing between 350 and 400 persons within a year Many of its semi-skilled workers would be hired in Marion The relief situation would be eased values of property for sale and rent should increase around 25 per cent and business men generally would benefit if the factory is brought here I've made a careful examination of the condition and cash position of the concern and I'm satisfied it will grow after coming here It isn't a jump in the dark—the company doesn't need financing We have a chance to get a factory building for the concern at about half of what it would cost to reproduce it

Chester C Roberts president of the C D & M Electric Co I was surprised when I saw what an extensive outlay the company had at Defiance The city has an unusual opportunity to get a factory that won't need local financing The committee has satisfied itself that the factory should be brought here —let's nail it right now

O J Kennedy president of the Marion County bank I went to Defiance to see this concern and I was favorably impressed with the factory and the amount of activity despite the handicap it is working under now It's absolutely a desirable property

John Abel county relief director Some 600 heads of families in Marion exclusive of WPA workers are now idle This factory would furnish employment for many of these because only semi skilled labor is required It's my prediction that within six months the problem of caring for direct relief will be back on the local community and I can assure you that [illegible] 000 won't go very far toward paying the bill It would be better [illegible] in getting a factory here that would absorb part of the relief roll You'll spend the money one way or another—why not have the factory to show for it after you've spent it

H I Lewis Chamber president— The concern would bring 60 new families to Marion

A F Berry National City Bank & Trust Co official—The concern has been operating for 65 years It makes a line of products that is very much in demand automobile heaters spring covers steering wheels automobile horns metal cases for milk bottles and beer bottles It's shipping 2 800 automobile heaters daily at present

Hugo Malo business man and real estate owner To bring the factory here would help employment and values of property and benefit merchants in all lines of business

J Malcolm Strelitz attorney and extensive owner of real estate— There's no question but that the results of moving the factory here would be beneficial

Roman Knecht manager of the Pollak Steel Mill—A factory like that would help Marion For one thing it would give jobs to many of our high school graduates who now have little opportunity [illegible] certain Maine will repudiate [illegible] national [illegible] election today and lead [illegible] Republican [illegible] November [illegible] constitutional [illegible] America.

Landon closed the tumultuous Maine campaign Saturday night in a [illegible] air address in the Portland stadium with the assertion planned economy is incompatible with the democratic form of government. He assailed the NRA as a trend toward substitution of arbitrary personal authority for constitutional self government.

"The spirit of the NRA lives on," he asserted, "in the spirit of the President who has confessed no error."

PROPOSE CHANGE IN CRIMINAL LAW

Bar Committee Would Expedite Felony Cases

The criminal law committee of the Ohio State Bar association recommended today an amendment to the Ohio constitution in order to expedite sentencing of persons pleading guilty to felonies, The Associated Press reported. Lawrence F. Keller of Delaware is a member of the committee.

At present, said Charles H. Elston of Cincinnati, named chairman of the committee by President George R. Murray of Dayton, the constitution requires a presentment or indictment by grand jury before an accused person can be charged with a crime carrying a penitentiary sentence.

The committee, he said, proposed to amend the law to allow prosecuting attorneys to file informations in felony cases so that accused persons could plead guilty at preliminary hearings without waiting for grand jury indictments.

The news dispatch also reported reappointment of Howard F. Cuthery, Marion attorney, to the bar association's publications committee which investigates law lists, duplication of law books and advance sheets of opinions.

"SMALLEST BABY" LEAVES INCUBATOR

Laura Dale Kinney Recovers From Slight Cold

Laura Dale Kinney had a slight cold Friday and Saturday and there was a somber note in the voice of the physician who has attended her constantly since she arrived in the world July 7 weighing two and a half pounds, the smallest baby ever placed in the City hospital incubator.

But everything was all right this morning, the doctor said, and Laura Dale is doing fine.

Today she weighs five pounds and nine ounces and is gaining steadily. No longer must she remain in the incubator. Now she occupies a crib in the King's Daughters nursery and enjoys all the freedom of the babies born free of the handicap of prematurity and minute weight. Her chances of living are one in two or three now, in contrast to one in 20 given her when she was rushed to the hospital 15 minutes after birth.

MARION MURDER CASES BEFORE APPEALS COURT

[illegible] was ordered [illegible] the [illegible] was found to have been fired from a gun [illegible] the [illegible] Bennett had been accused [illegible] the shooting.

[illegible] Watkins was presented [illegible] Michel [illegible] attorney for [illegible] who was convicted of [illegible] along with Watkins.

Mooney referred to [illegible] James F. Bennett as [illegible] significant features of the case, pointing out that they had quarreled on the morning of the fatal shooting.

He attacked the robbery motive which had been ascribed to Watkins and Braden, declaring that it was generally known that the victim was poor. He concluded his argument by declaring that all the investigation and testimony developed tended to show the guilt of Cyrus Bennett.

Prosecuting Attorney Paul D. Michel, representing the state in the appeal hearings, contradicted the argument of the defense attorney about a deal between Hunter and Marion police, saying that there is nothing in the [illegible] record to support such a statement.

Full confessions were made by Barden and Watkins in which they told of planning to rob Bennett, Michel said. In his confession Watkins told of stopping Bennett on the street and ordering him to put up his hands. Bennett instead started shooting and wounded Watkins in the leg before Watkins shot him, Michel declared.

Wound Found

Police investigation bore this statement out, Michel said, for a wound was found on Watkins' leg. Further he pointed out testimony was given in the trial by Louise Cornwell that on the day after the shooting she treated a wound in Watkins' leg.

Statements in Watkins' confession were further borne out by testimony showing Bennett was in the habit of carrying a gun and that a box of partly filled 22 caliber cartridges were found in the dead man's pocket, Michel said. Other witnesses testified Bennett was in the habit of carrying a gun and had done so on the day before the shooting, the prosecuting attorney declared.

Michel closed his argument by asking the appellate court to carefully examine Cyrus Bennett's confession, saying he believed the court would conclude that it was not made by a competent person. At no place in the confession did Bennett admit having shot his brother, Michel asserted.

Attorney Fred W. Warner presented the argument for Dominic Spagiani, convicted of second degree murder in the shooting of Jess Yoder over a 10-cent poker bet.

The fatal shot was fired in self defense, Warner declared. Yoder had a quarrelsome nature and had imposed on Spagiani for some time, Warner said, and although Spagiani had warned Yoder, he had pursued Spagiani to a darkened room where the shooting took place.

Room Off Kitchen

The room opens off from the kitchen in which Spagiani, Yoder and two other men had been playing cards.

Warner attempted to establish his assertion that the fatal bullet was fired while Spagiani was lying on the floor with Yoder leaning directly over him. The bullet passed through Yoder's body and struck a door frame before glancing to the ceiling, Warner said, indicating the bullet was fired straight up from the floor.

When the quarrel over the bet arose Spagiani told Yoder to leave him alone or he would shoot him, Warner said.

With this Spagiani pulled a gun, Warner said. Both men backed away from the card table, Warner said, with Yoder crying at Spagiani that "Anyone who pulls a gun on me will have to use it."

Spagiani backed into the darkened room and Yoder followed him, Warner said.

Prosecuting Attorney Michel answered Warner's argument, pointing out that Yoder was known as a steady, reliable man but admitted he was quarrelsome when drinking. Michel pointed out that [illegible] of the [illegible] the right of the [illegible]

[illegible] Moore was [illegible] a day [illegible] Yoder [illegible] was his [illegible] into the [illegible] other [illegible] the [illegible]

[illegible] game [illegible] quarrel [illegible] Michel [illegible]

[illegible] attempt to [illegible] Watkins [illegible] fatal [illegible] referred to [illegible] he said that [illegible] and [illegible] Michel said.

[illegible] passed [illegible] Yoder's body [illegible] a 30-degree [illegible] and then glance to the ceiling.

[illegible] arguments were presented to supplement [illegible] which were filed with the court. Hearing the appeals were Presiding Judge William [illegible] of Lima and Judge C. A. Guernsey of Fostoria and P. M. Crow of Kenton.

* *

Unusual Features Mark Both Cases

The hearings in Lima today write another chapter in three of Marion county's most unusual murder cases of recent years—the Spagiani case because the killing of Yoder resulted from a quarrel over a 10-cent bet in a penny ante poker game and the Watkins and Braden cases because they were apprehended four years after the crime and after a brother of the slain man had spent four years in the Lima hospital for the criminally insane accused of the murder.

Spagiani was convicted in common pleas court last March of having shot Yoder with a 38 caliber revolver as the climax of a quarrel at Spagiani's Kenton avenue home on the night of Aug. [illegible], 1935. He was indicted on a charge of first degree murder and although Prosecutor Michel argued that the murder was premeditated the jury brought in a verdict of guilty of murder in the second degree.

Attorney Warner placed Spagiani on the stand as the only defense witness. He attempted to prove that Spagiani shot Yoder in self defense, that Yoder had been drinking and that he was quarrelsome and abusive—and that the fatal shot was fired only after Yoder threw Spagiani to the floor and choked him.

Several days after the jury returned its guilty verdict Judge H. S. Young sentenced Spagiani to a life term in the Ohio penitentiary. Conviction of second degree murder would make him eligible for parole in from eight to 10 years.

Whether Watkins and Braden will ever see the light of day outside the grim walls of Ohio penitentiary however depends largely on what action the court of appeals takes as a result of the hearings today. They were found guilty of murder in the first degree and all that saved them from sentences to the electric chair were the recommendations of mercy made by the juries that convicted them.

Braden and Watkins were arrested last October lacking a few weeks of four years of the time Bennett was found slain about midnight the night of Dec. 12, 1931. He was killed on Herman street as he was on his way home from his work as a crossing watchman.

It was Watkins' propensity for talking when under the influence of liquor that led to the downfall of the pair. A chance remark he dropped while in this condition was reported to Police Captain Orr DeWeese [illegible] DeWeese [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible] and [illegible] Bennett because they [illegible] carried a large sum of money on his person.

Story of Shooting

[illegible] police said [illegible] Bennett opened fire [illegible] In his confession he said he and Braden fled the scene after the shooting, leaving their victim [illegible] on the sidewalk.

Bennett was found [illegible] by his brother Cyrus. The [illegible] story of what had taken place, his attempt to dispose of a revolver later found [illegible] and the fact that the two men had quarreled over the [illegible] household expenses [illegible] Cyrus [illegible] confessed to police that he had [illegible] his brother. He was [illegible] committed to the Lima state hospital [illegible] insane. He was brought back from Lima to testify at the trials of Watkins and Braden [illegible] testimony threw little light on what actually took place on the night of the murder.

The slain man's brother has remained in the state hospital at Lima since a short time after the murder. All possibility of his release is understood to center around the outcome of the Braden and Watkins cases.

CHAPTER FORTY FOUR

Doctor's Help

[illegible] ed the office on Sa[illegible] ng like a man who [illegible] leep There was a [illegible] head as he en[illegible] room a wave of [illegible] against him and al[illegible] him If they knew [illegible] have despised me [illegible] welcome and let [illegible] swiftly from one [illegible] other

[illegible] Carol face almost [illegible] He went to his office and sat with his head in his hands seeing her face and thinking in spite of himself of the last three days

But not even pity or remorse could temper his love for Carol Instead of losing her love he felt as if their common knowledge and responsibility had bound them together forever and his hunger for her was unbearable

But he could not force himself upon her [illegible] the memory of her [illegible] was too fresh He had the feeling that the very sight of him was unendurable to her and his heart was racked by the thought of her chained to her desk like a still trapped animal

On a sudden impulse he turned to the telephone and called Dr Freeman

This is Blake Thornton he said abruptly I wonder if I might talk to you a few minutes?

Yes indeed Dr Freeman said promptly If you hadn't called me I intended to call you in a day or two

What time would suit you?

There was an interval during which Dr Freeman consulted his appointment book

How soon could you get here?

In ten or fifteen minutes

Good I'll see you then I'm operating at eleven

Blake wondered sitting in the luxurious waiting room what sort of man Freeman was and how much he could expect in the way of understanding He rose eagerly at the nurse's summons and entered an immaculate consulting room

Dr Freeman shook hands and Blake liked the firmness and sureness of his grasp He was a big blonde man with beautifully kept hands and a soothing manner that might hide a great deal of force

Sit down he said gravely That was a tragic business

Blake looked squarely into his eyes A lot more tragic than you know That's what I wanted to talk about

Freeman nodded and leaned back in his chair I knew of course that there was something back of it Her type usually clings to the last shred of life no matter how much unhappiness it holds

Freeman's quiet tone gave him hope He said bluntly

I had just filed suit for divorce I managed to keep that out of the papers I went down a week ago to ask her to divorce me

Dr Freeman nodded He could guess at a great deal more He said unexpectedly

You're to blame but not in the way you think Your fault goes back a great many years

Blake said defensively You mean in marrying her at all?

No That needn't have been disastrous Your mistake was in humoring her in not demanding more of her

Blake's mouth was thin "I'm sorry I wasn't cut out for a tyrant

Oh my God Freeman groaned There's a middle ground And besides a woman of her type needs a tyrant She should have married a Frenchman — or a Spaniard American husbands ruin her sort"

The interview Blake felt was becoming incredibly cold-blooded They were dissecting Irma like a pair of medical students And then reason overcame his reluctance Wasn't this what he wanted? Wasn't he fighting for his life?

Freeman went on very gravely I can guess of course what you must be going through and I'd like to help you Your responsibility for the tragedy is not nearly so direct as you think It lies mainly—you'll forgive me I hope—in your wife's own character As you probably knew she was at a time of life which sometimes does strange things to women—particularly where there is a tendency to neurosis Their viewpoint become distorted and they exaggerate every misfortune A spoiled child who has been disciplined sometimes resorts to the same desperate means

Blake's anger faded and he felt a quick liking for the man who was holding out a hand that might pull him from the depths in which he struggled He said quietly

Thank you very much I'll try to remember that

Dr Freeman was looking at his beautiful hands How does—the other girl feel?

Blake's hard won composure was threatened She's—stunned I'm afraid she never wants to see me again

Do you think she loves you?

I think so He remembered her parting words I'll be with you every minute—if that helps any He said in a surer voice I know she does

Then hold on to her in spite of everything Don't give in this time If you want me to talk to her I will

The offer was generous but he doubted if Carol would accept it He said Thank you a thousand times If I fail I may ask you to help But he could not imagine forcing or influencing her decision Carol was not like Irma.

* * *

On Sunday morning Cornelia telephoned Carol

Can't you come out for dinner tonight? Mother and Dad are in New York and I want to make whoopee I'll run over and get you about seven

Carol's heart stopped for a second because she suspected Cornelia's intention But when they entered Cornelia's beautiful living room Carol saw that the room was empty They had cocktails and sat down to a table that was laid for two She felt relieved like a criminal who knowing his execution to be inevitable has been granted a brief reprieve

When dinner was over Cornelia rose

Let's have coffee in the den Go on in while I speak to James

Carol's breath caught I can't she almost screamed and instead turned silently away

There was a log fire in the den and Blake sat on a couch before the fire smoking He sprang up as the door opened and they stood motionless looking at each other She closed the door mechanically He said awkwardly

Cornelia was good enough to ask me to come I hope you don't mind

She forced herself to speak steadily No We had to see each other and talk it out She smiled a little We always seem to be talking something out don't we?

She did not dare sit beside him on the couch so she took a big chair that half faced the fireplace He offered her a cigaret and she accepted it automatically and noticed that his hands were shaking as he held the match for her

He said haltingly I've been anxious about you Are you—all right?

Yes Are you?

I suppose so I wanted to tell you—not to work for a while if you didn't feel like it.

Emotion distorted her face for the first time I didn't think I had any choice Unless of course you'd rather I wouldn't

His voice broke Oh Carol! Don't you know I want you there —even if I can't say a word to you? Just knowing you're in the next room helps me to get through a day

She looked at the fire I wonder if it does? I wonder if it wouldn't be better for me to go away—for good

Do you want to? he ask finally

I don't know I suppose the courageous thing to do is to stay —if I can stand it

He felt a quick anger against her because she seemed to misunderstand and to fail him so completely

For God's sake don't make me feel like a jailer If you want to go you know I won't try to stop you

The flare of anger burned out and the longing that succeeded it broke down his restraint.

Please sit by me he said gently I won't touch you unless you want me to

He told her what Dr Freeman had said and watched her anxiously for a sign of relaxing tension

He said—he'd be glad to talk to you if you cared to he concluded

No I think I know already what he'd say

And—that doesn't make you feel any better?

Tears burned her eyes suddenly

It ought to After a while maybe it will It's too—fresh—right now

He got up and stood on the hearth facing her Carol—aren't you being what you've always despised a sentimentalist? You're the most honest person I've ever known think '

Tomorrow, Carol and Blake arrive at a decision.

At Gun Point, Lillian Prevents Marauder from Throwing Stiletto from Balcony

HOW LONG would it be before the darkly swathed figure advancing toward us across the balcony discovered that he was not alone in his vantage place

That was the question which [illegible] around my brain as my [illegible] eyes watched his stealthy approach to the balcony rail again [illegible] which Lillian and I were crouching fairly holding our breaths for fear he might hear a sound from us

Lillian's fingers were tapping a code message against my shoulder and even as my eyes watched the shadowy outlines of the advancing figure I acted upon the injunction Lillian was giving me

If he comes this side she was signalling I'll take him You must be ready if he comes on the other side But if he comes on my side try to make Katie understand she's to grab him from behind when I tell him to put up his hands

Prepare for Struggle

How I ever conveyed that message to Katie I have no clear idea I remember putting my hands to her throat shoving her toward the end of the bench and then pulling her back again pointing my finger toward Lillian If there had been any witness of the scene who did not realize the danger we were in he would have choked to death with laughter

But miraculously Katie understood and when the next second the man swerved at the couch hammock and went around to Lillian's side Katie was inching over to the edge of the hammock ready for action

With a feeling of desperation I took my little silencer pistol from my pocket and sliding noiselessly closer to Lillian held it ready for any action she might wish or need of me

Believes He's Alone

So sure was the man that he was alone that he paid no attention to the concealment offered by the couch hammock advancing steadily but with infinite caution to a point at the balcony rail just to the left of Lillian so near that if he had known of her proximity he could have touched her

Just before he reached the rail he made a stealthy fumbling motion inside his coat and then although the black gloved hand that must have come from beneath the cloak was hard to distinguish there was no mistaking the glitter of a long stiletto-like weapon which he appeared to be balancing

With a pulse leap of horror I realized that he must have the horrible artistry necessary to poise and cast that weapon with deadly accuracy at a target some distance away I did not need to be psychic to know that Lillian already knew that [illegible] that she was sure [illegible] was in [illegible] her husband

With a prayer that my hand had not forgotten its [illegible] I [illegible] the little silencer [illegible] was cradled [illegible] of my hand and aimed the weapon carefully at a [illegible] the back of the gleaming streak of silver which was steady [illegible] pointing [illegible] he had [illegible] any chance of [illegible] the back of his weapon [illegible] to get [illegible] I must try it

Lillian Stops Him

[illegible]

[illegible] the gleaming thing did not [illegible] at her [illegible] and the [illegible] of him [illegible] it was [illegible] not even a quick [illegible] that he had heard her [illegible] felt the gleaming weapon [illegible] his muscles were flexing [illegible] and how his devilish brain was casting about [illegible] for the best method of jerking away from the revolver and sending its holder forever with the knife

He was counting on his contempt for women I was sure He did not believe she would use the revolver or perhaps that it was even loaded But just as he made a sudden spring backward and the knife flashed upward Katie who had stolen up behind him jerked him back with strong arms garroting his neck

The Stars Say—

For Tuesday Sept 15

A VERY LIVELY and critical state of affairs is read from the rather perplexing position of the planets While there will be a spirit of enterprise and adventure with signs of unexpected change and disturbance yet over all there is a mystifying and peculiar condition to cope with and unravel A death may be at the root of this upheaval There seem to be signs of a mystical or spiritual disturbance that may have a marked influence on changing the life its views and activities or aspirations It would be well to be careful with strangers or partners and sign papers cautiously

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a rather critical year in their affairs with many unexpected changes There are likely to be radical or subtle influences at work A death or other bereavement may influence decisions for the future

A child born on this day while clever and versatile may have a disposition difficult to understand and manage He may have mystical spiritual or radical tendencies making him sensitive and aloof

School Lunch

Well-balanced school lunches are of vital concern to the child and to school authorities The latter know that poorly nourished children become listless and irritable Such youngsters are unable to do their work and often become problem children

Many are sent to school without enough food or too much of the wrong food Since the lunch time meal represents about one third of the daily food intake it should be nutritious and appetizing

A hot meal at noon time if it can be had is best for the school child In many large city schools a plate luncheon is offered at a small price The plate consists of meat or a meat substitute vegetables bread butter and milk Sometimes a fruit pudding or dessert These luncheons are variously priced so that though a child has only a little to spend he is assured of adequate and wholesome food

In many rural districts such as the one I lived in as a boy no cafeteria is provided and lunch must be brought from home The meal in lunch brought from home should always include a thermos bottle or an equally adequate beverage container It should carry hot chocolate or soup during cold weather In warm weather a cold beverage can be supplied

Sandwiches are the usual foundation of the school lunch box These are easily made and should be at*tractive and appetizing* Cut the bread in different shapes and use variety in the fillings Wrap the sandwiches in attractive paper These little niceties stimulate the appetite and aid the digestion

I cannot urge too strongly the importance of the school lunch whether it be provided by school or brought from home Wholesome varied food at lunch time helps to build healthy bodies and clear minds

I strongly urge close cooperation between school authorities and parents in planning adequate school lunches The future health and welfare of your child depends upon proper nourishment during his formative years

GIANTS DIVIDE WITH CARDINALS AS CROWD HITS NEW HIGH MARK

Yankees Use Eight Homers To Beat Browns, Reds Split With Bees

BY SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Giants are breathing easier today. The worst is over and they're still 3½ games in front of the National league pack.

Records were smashed on all sides in both leagues through the Sunday program.

The biggest crowd in National league history, an overflow throng of 64,417, jammed the Polo Grounds to the rafters to see the Giants and Cardinals.

The American league champion New York Yankees walloped eight homers in taking a doubleheader from the Browns to bring their total for the season to 175, setting a new major league record for four base blows and for extra bases on long hits in one season.

Young Bob Feller, the Cleveland Indians' schoolboy sensation, fanned 17 Philadelphia Athletics batters to better Rube Waddell's American league mark and equal Dizzy Dean's major league record for strikeouts in a game.

Thousands Turned Away

The crowd at the Polo Grounds—police estimated 10,000 more were turned away—went wild as Mel Ott blasted his 31st and 32nd homers and Fat Freddy Fitzsimmons pitched seven hit ball to give the Giants an 8-1 win in the opener of the twin bill.

Then the huge throng produced a September snowstorm over the field with paper and scorecards in the nightcap and Johnny Mize's homer sewed up a 4-3 decision for the Cardinals and Dizzy Dean relieved Roy Parmelee in the eighth and stopped the Giants.

The Cubs blew their chance to gain on the leaders by getting only a split with the Dodgers, Ed Brandt pitching an eight-hitter in the opener for a 6-3 Brooklyn win and Frank Demaree's big bat setting the pace for a 14-hit attack which gave the Cubs a 9-7 decision in the nightcap.

Joe DiMaggio walloped three homers and Lou Gehrig hammered out his 47th and 48th in the Yankees' record-breaking performance against the Browns as the homicide squad won both ends of the twin bill 10-7 and 8-1.

New Record Set

Their total of 175 four baggers is two better than the old major league record of 173 set up by the Athletics of 1932. The eight homers along with three doubles gave them a total of 987 extra bases on long hits for the season, shattering the previous mark of 974 set by the Yanks of 1930.

In his spectacular strikeout performance the Indians' young Feller allowed the A's but two hits as he won the first game of the twin bill 5-2. He walked nine men and struck out everybody on the line up except one pinch hitter. The Tribe also took the nightcap 5-3 to pull up to a fourth place tie with the Detroit Tigers.

The come-backing Red Sox walloped the Tigers 7-4 with Jimmy Foxx getting homer number 38 in the only other American league meeting. The White Sox and Senators were rained out.

Gene Schott pitched a three hitter to give the Reds a 2-1 victory over the Boston Bees in the first game of a doubleheader. The Bees took the nightcap 6-1 with a 17 hit barrage.

The Pirates and Phillies divided their twin bill, the Bucs getting a 5-3 opener decision and the Phils coming from behind to take the nightcap 4-3.

PERRY, ALICE MARBLE WIN TENNIS MATCHES

New Woman Champ Defeats Helen Hull Jacobs in Surprise Play

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 14—Out of the welter of the 55th U. S. singles tennis championships there was unmistakable proof today of Fred Perry's words of wisdom—a layoff never hurt anybody.

During the early rounds of the tournament the black haired bounding Briton watched Donald Budge, America's leading exponent of the sport, struggling against an inferior opponent.

"Don's overtennised," observed Perry. "He ought to call it quits for six months."

Perry proved his point by outlasting the lanky 22 year old Pacific coast star in a gruelling five-set final Saturday when he recaptured the crown and became the first invader to win the title three times. Alice Marble of San Francisco forcibly reemphasized it, capping her comeback after a two-year enforced retirement by dethroning four times champion Helen Hull Jacobs in three sizzling sets.

Miss Marble sprang what probably will go down in history as one of the game's greatest surprises. There was nothing in her early play to indicate she had regained the touch which made her the country's No. 3 player three years ago before she became ill.

McIntire and Koontz, both of Marion and reported to be the oldest battery in the state, started the second game for the Independents. The box score of the completed game follows:

Shovel Team Edges Out Victory in Ninth Inning

Bill Darrell and Harold Fetter, ace mound men of the Marion Steam Shovel A. A. baseball club, pooled their abilities to whip the strong Cleveland Fa[illegible] 4 to 3 at Lincoln park yesterday afternoon. After holding a 3 to 1 lead through the four previous innings it was necessary for the Shovel team to overcome a ninth stanza deadlock to garner the victory.

The invading gang got three hits and two runs to tie the score in the ninth before Darrell relieved Fetter and retired the side with a pair of strikeouts. Griffith, Shovel catcher, tallied the winning run when he reached first after being hit by a pitched ball, advanced on a fielder's choice and scored on McArmich's single.

Approximately 500 fans witnessed the contest which was marked by the spectacular playing of Gepfer, shortstop of the visiting team. His brilliant fielding work won him continued applause as he handled nine chances without a misplay.

TWO PLAYERS OUT OF O. W. U. LINEUP

Whalen and Musson Lost For First Few Games

By The Associated Press

DELAWARE, O., Sept. 14—Loss of two regulars for at least the first few games of the season was announced today by George Gauthier, Ohio Wesleyan's coach, as the Bishops started their second week of practice. They open with Pitt at Pittsburgh Sept. 26.

Jo Whalen of Cleveland, senior halfback, has a broken cheek bone that may keep him out for the season, Gauthier said. Bill Musson, also of Cleveland, senior tackle, has a fractured ankle but he may be in shape by the middle of October.

VON BROMBERG AND TERROR TO WRESTLE

Weaver and Clingman Also To Clash Tonight

Two contrasting types of grunt and groan artists will share the program on the weekly mat card at the Marion Steam Shovel gymnasium tonight.

One type is that represented by the Masked Terror and Count Von Bromberg who will meet in one of the 90-minute time limit main bouts. They are rough, tough and mean and the bout is expected to be one in which anything goes.

Buck Weaver of Terre Haute, Ind., and Otis Clingman of Amarillo, Tex., who meet in tonight's second main bout will represent the other type of wrestler. Weaver and Clingman attempt to win their bouts by ability, strength and trickery instead of resorting to caveman tactics and should give the fans a good exhibition of clean scientific wrestling.

Tonight's card will start off at 8:30 with a 20-minute opener.

ROOKIES SHINE IN FOOTBALL OPENER

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 14—The National Professional Football league season was under way today with two rookies possessing spurs earned convincingly in the opening pro skirmishes.

Dave Smukler, former Temple ace, contributed the outstanding individual performance of the tilt as he led the Philadelphia Eagles to a 10 to 7 victory Sunday over the New York Giants.

Husky George Kakasic, fresh from Duquesne, sparked the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 10 to 0 win over the Boston Red Skins, scoring nine points.

The Green Bay Packers, defeated in five straight league games by the Chicago Cardinals, turned the tables by trimming the Chicagoans 10 to 7 before 10,000 fans at Green Bay.

A batted baseball striking the firstbase bag is a fair hit.

BREWERS QUALIFY FOR FINAL ROUND OF ASSOCIATION PLAYOFF

Indianapolis Needs Only One More Victory To Become Milwaukee's Opponent

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 14—The champion Milwaukee Brewers were in the finals of the American association playoffs today but the situation was far from bright for the St. Paul Saints.

The Brewers took their fourth straight game yesterday from Kansas City, defeating the Blues 3 to 0 to qualify for the final seven game series, the winner of which will enter the Little World Series against the International league victor. St. Paul meanwhile took a third beating from Indianapolis 5 to 4 and the Indians now need but one game to reach the title playoff against Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, which won the circuit title and then lost so many games that Brewer fans began to worry, again presented some fine pitching to eliminate the Blues. Clyde Hatter pitched three hit ball. Less than 4,000 saw the game played in Kansas City.

At Indianapolis before 8,000 spectators Paul (Dizzy) Trout started for the Tribe but was blasted from the hill as [illegible] tied the score [illegible]. Bud Tinning replaced Trout and received credit for the win.

The winning marker came in the last of the sixth when [illegible] went to second on an infield [illegible] and scored as Otto Bluege [illegible] through second.

The fifth tilt of the Indianapolis-St. Paul series was scheduled tonight.

GRAIN PRICES SLIP AS SOWING INCREASES

Recession in Chicago Contrasts With Advance at Winnipeg and Liverpool.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 14 — Slightly lower prices and slackened trading formed the rule on the Chicago board of trade today especially toward the last.

Action of grains here was in contrast with advanced quotations at Winnipeg and Liverpool, where more notice was taken of better demand for wheat in Europe and of dry weather in Argentina. A bearish circumstance was word of increased seeding of wheat in domestic winter crop territory southwest.

Wheat closed irregular, ⅛ off to ¼ up compared with Saturday's finish, Sept. 1.12⅞@¾, Dec. 1.11½@⅝, corn ¼@1⅛ down, Sept. 1.12½@1.13, Dec. 95½@¼, oats at ⅛@⅜ decline, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 2 cents.

Wool Market

BOSTON, Sept. 14—Domestic wool prices were quoted very firmly in the Boston market today. While buyers were not operating heavily, a sufficient volume of wool was held at prices above the current market to keep asking prices very firm on the wools offered.

Prices at the opening in Brisbane, Australia, on Monday were reported by cables to private concerns in Boston to be steady as compared with closing prices at sales last week.

CHILD INJURED WHILE AT PLAY

Patricia Lee, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Murphy, suffered a badly broken left arm when she fell Saturday while running across the lawn of a neighbor's home. Treatment was given at the office of Dr. A. A. Starner. The child is a second grade pupil at the Pearl Street school.

Tonight At 8 O'clock

Hear Hon. Paul M. Herbert, candidate for Lieutenant Governor, and Hon. Grant E. Mouser, Jr., candidate for Congress, at Republican headquarters. All voters, regardless of party affiliations, invited.

The meeting will be preceded by a reception in honor of these candidates, at the Hotel Marion, at 6:30 at which these candidates and distinguished visitors will be the guests of the club at dinner. All officers and members of the various Republican organizations, local candidate and voters are also invited and urged to attend this reception and dinner.

SELLING SENDS STOCKS LOWER

Leaders Recede Fractions to Two Points Although Business News Is Good.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14—Selling tremors rippled through the stock market today and many of the leaders were shaken down fractions to around two points.

Among resistant shares were Continental Oil, Texas Corp., Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, United Aircraft, Goodyear, Pittsburgh Screw & Bolt, Socony-Vacuum, Warner Bros., Loew's and General Electric.

Losers included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, General Motors, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Spiegel-May-Stern, J. I. Case, American Telephone, Western Union, Consolidated Edison, North American, Anaconda, Kennecott, U. S. Smelting Hawe Sound, American Can, Westinghouse, du Pont, Santa Fe, New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Northern Pacific and Southern Railway.

Bonds drifted to slightly lower levels. Commodities and foreign currencies were mixed.

Brighter prospects for both the transport and manufacturing divisions of the aviation companies served to bolster these stocks.

Traders divided their attention between the Maine election and week-end economic developments.

Helpful also were forecasts of building observers indicating a substantial increase in industrial construction during the remainder of the year.

At the beginning of foreign exchange transactions sterling was up ⅛ of a cent at $5.06⅝ and the French franc was .00¼ of a cent improved at 6.58½ cents.
